SEPTEMBER 2026, ISSUE 32

Walking Together in Hope

A MESSAGE FROM MICHAEL

President & CEO, Sisters of Charity Health System

As I read through this month's stories, one idea kept returning: no one does this work alone. It's also a phrase we often hear from the Sisters of Charity of St. Augustine, so it's fitting that this month's newsletter carries that theme throughout.

Here are just a few highlights that you'll find on the pages that follow.

In early September, we celebrated the official opening of the Glick Recovery Campus on the St. Vincent Charity Health & Healing Hub campus. It is a place where people facing mental health and substance use crises can find compassionate, coordinated care. It exists because many partners said yes to the same vision. With the Rosary Hall Withdrawal Management Unit expected to open in early 2027, that shared commitment will only grow.

The same spirit shows up across our ministries:

- The Early Childhood Resource Center's inaugural Ready, Set, Swing! Golf outing had 120 golfers and guests, raising more than $70,000 to give young children a strong start.
- At the Light of Hearts Villa Vincentian Pathways project, volunteers continue to help restore this historic property.
- The Sisters of Charity Foundation of Canton continues to mark its 30th anniversary by serving others, from the Boys and Girls Club of Massillon to Lighthouse Ministries.

- Leaders from the South Carolina Center for Fathers and Families have been meeting with county, city and philanthropic partners in South Carolina's Lowcountry to open new doors and further support fathers.
- A series of new videos highlights all the amazing work happening across four of our ministries, sharing their stories and respective missions, with more videos expected to come in 2027.

None of this is new. Throughout 2026, the Sisters of Charity of St. Augustine have been celebrating 175 years of ministry in the Diocese of Cleveland. They never built their legacy alone, and neither do we. Today, those of us who serve in the Health System carry that mission forward alongside funders, volunteers, community organizations, parishes and public officials who believe, as we do, that every neighbor deserves care and hope.

To everyone who serves in our ministries, thank you. Your compassion, creativity and commitment are the reason partners want to stand with us. As we look toward 2027, I hope we will keep asking ourselves who else we can invite to the table, and how we can be a faithful partner in return.

Warmly,

Michael

◆ SISTERS OF CHARITY OF ST. AUGUSTINE 175TH ANNIVERSARY:

Catholic Diocese of Cleveland Highlights Concluding Celebration — The Sisters concluded the celebration of 175 years of ministry in the Diocese of Cleveland at a Mass and reception Sept. 12 at St. Albert the Great Parish in North Royalton. Auxiliary Bishop Michael Woost celebrated the liturgy. The entrance procession included the CSA sisters and representatives of their ministries. “Sisters, since 1851 when Bishop Amadeus Rappe invited members of your community to move from France to Cleveland, you have joyfully embraced the risk of living the hypodeigma (a Greek word meaning pattern or model) of Jesus,” said Bishop Woost. “You have given the gift of yourselves in selfless love by opening hospitals, educating generations of children and teens and inviting lay women and men to share in your charism.” Read the full diocese article by clicking here.

Sister Judith Ann Karam, CSA, Honored with Key to Cuyahoga County — Cuyahoga County Executive Chris Ronayne presented Sister Judith Ann Karam, CSA, with the Key to Cuyahoga County on Sept. 10 during the 2026 State of the County address in Cleveland. The honor recognized Sr. Judith Ann’s decades of service and leadership through the Health System, Alcoholics Anonymous and more. “I feel honored,” she said in a video shared on the county’s social media channels. “How can I be deserving of it? By helping another person.” The Key to Cuyahoga County program launched four years ago to “honor citizens that just do great things in our community.” Read the full article by clicking here.

◆ ST. VINCENT CHARITY HEALTH & HEALING HUB: Glick Recovery Campus Officially Opens — The Glick Recovery Campus, which is located on the Health & Healing Hub campus, is officially open, with a ribbon cutting that happened Sept. 4. The Rosary Hall Withdrawal Management Unit is expected to open in early 2027. The Glick Recovery Campus represents a shared commitment to expanding access to compassionate, coordinated care for individuals experiencing mental health and substance use crises. In a Facebook post about the ribbon cutting, The Centers wrote, "This vision became reality because of the dedication and generosity of so many people. We extend our deepest gratitude to our major funders, JoAnn and Bob Glick, Sisters of Charity Health System, Cuyahoga County, the ADAMHS Board of Cuyahoga County, and the Ohio Department of Behavioral Health, whose support made this transformative project possible. Together, they have helped create a place where individuals and families can find hope, healing and a path forward."

JOSEPH & MARY'S HOME (JMH): Crain's Cleveland Business Features Op-Ed Written by Executive Director Anna Stormer — Crain's Cleveland Business recently published an opinion piece written by JMH Executive Director Anna Stormer titled "Cleveland must be brave enough to care." Anna was inspired to write the op-ed after reflecting on the number of Ohioans — more than 160,000 — who have lost Affordable Care Act marketplace coverage over the past year. This, coupled with the 356,000 additional Ohioans who could soon lose Medicaid coverage due to federal changes taking effect, make medical respite more necessary than ever before.

JOSEPH & MARY'S HOME *continued*Joseph & Mary's Home Executive Director Anna Stormer

As Stormer writes in her op-ed, “For our neighbors experiencing homelessness, losing health coverage is not simply a data point. It is often a matter of life and death. Even a brief interruption in care can have devastating consequences for someone already living without stable housing... No one should be expected to recover from a serious illness alone or in unsafe conditions. No one should be forced to choose between stable housing, medication or food. And no medical provider or social worker should have to discharge a patient into homelessness or unstable housing because our community failed to provide a safe place for that person to continue healing.” Read the full op-ed by clicking here.

Edwin D. Northrup II. Fund Grant Provides Nutritious Meals – The Edwin D. Northrup II. Fund recently provided a generous grant for residents’ daily nutritious meals. The meals offer healthy, filling food so men and women can feel their best while on the path toward recovery and a return to self-care. Welcome New Respite Care Manager Diamond McClough, MSW – Diamond McClough has joined the team as the respite care manager. This is not Diamond’s first time at JMH; she was an intern at Joseph’s Home in 2020. She returns with a master’s degree in social work from Case Western Reserve University. Diamond will oversee the full resident lifecycle at JMH, including prescreens, referrals, admissions and alumni programming, providing residents and partners with a dedicated point of contact throughout each step of the process. Welcome (back) to the team, Diamond!

◆ EARLY CHILDHOOD RESOURCE CENTER (ECRC): Inaugural Charity Golf Outing Fundraiser Drives Success — ECRC supporters gathered Sept. 18 at Arrowhead Golf Club in North Canton for the inaugural Ready, Set, Swing! Charity Golf Outing, presented by PNC Bank. With 120 golfers and guests in attendance, the event brought together ECRC supporters, community partners and friends for a day of golf, fun and philanthropy—all in support of ECRC's mission to promote the healthy development of young children. Throughout the day, participants enjoyed breakfast, 18 holes of golf, a catered lunch, and the chance to enter to win various raffles and silent auction items. The event brought in more than $70,000. Every dollar raised represents an opportunity to invest in the children, families and early childhood professionals at the center of ECRC's work. These funds will help ECRC continue providing programs and services that strengthen families, support early childhood professionals, and help young children get the strong start they deserve.

Investing in Child Care Leadership Across the Mahoning Valley — Strong early learning programs start with strong leaders. Last month, ECRC launched The Leadership Journey, a new professional growth initiative serving child care administrators in Mahoning and Trumbull counties. The project is supported by a $20,000 investment from the Community Foundation of the Mahoning Valley. While The Leadership Journey represents an exciting expansion of this work in the Mahoning Valley, providing leadership development and workforce support to early childhood professionals is not new to ECRC. Every day across its six-county service area, ECRC sees how equipping child care providers with the right tools, resources and support can strengthen programs from the inside out.

Through The Leadership Journey project, this work is now taking root in the Mahoning Valley region, where a new cohort of administrators recently gathered to begin a year of learning and professional growth.

Throughout the project, participants will receive individualized coaching, leadership development, and practical tools to help them strengthen workplace culture, improve onboarding practices and support staff retention.

UPCOMING EVENTS: EARLY CHILDHOOD RESOURCE CENTER

◆ SISTERS OF CHARITY FOUNDATION OF SOUTH CAROLINA: Foundation Launches Partnership with Economic Development Organization to Advance Fair Representation — The Foundation and South Carolina Association for Community Economic Development (SCACED) have launched a partnership to advance fair and just representation for people across South Carolina. Through the partnership, the Foundation is providing SCACED with $270,000 to support community-based organizations that are addressing barriers to fair representation at the state and national levels, strengthening civic participation and helping ensure eligible South Carolinians have meaningful opportunities to participate in the November 2026 election cycle.

“This investment is about ensuring every eligible South Carolinian has the opportunity to participate in our democracy, not about any candidate, party or platform. Foundations like ours are permitted, and in fact encouraged, to support nonpartisan civic engagement because a healthy democracy depends on full participation. Catholic Social Teaching calls us to support people’s ability to be heard and this partnership is simply an expression of that belief,” said Foundation President Donna Waites.

Under the partnership, SCACED will serve as a fiscal intermediary, deploying funding to nonprofit organizations throughout the state. A portion of the Foundation funding will be used to support SCACED’s 2026 Voter Engagement Mini-Grants. “We believe coming together is one of the most powerful ways to respond when our communities face a moment that calls for action,” said Melinda Merrell, the Foundation’s senior director of grantmaking and strategy. “SCACED recognized the urgency of this moment, and we are grateful to be able to come alongside them and invest in the organizations and communities who are already doing this work.”

◆ SOUTH CAROLINA CENTER FOR FATHERS AND FAMILIES (SCCFF): Expanding Lowcountry Partnerships to Further Support Fathers — SCCFF leaders traveled to the South Carolina Lowcountry in recent weeks to strengthen local partnerships, explore funding and advance workforce development for fathers and families. President Karriem Edwards, Director of Marketing and Communications Dr. Lawrence Ford and Director of Community Engagement Marc Himes met with county leaders in Berkeley County, the mayor’s office in the City of Charleston, the ATI Foundation in Dorchester County and the Coastal Carolina Foundation in North Charleston.

The meetings produced several concrete next steps. Berkeley County officials are connecting SCCFF to a promising reentry opportunity tied to the county's new detention center, opening a path for fathers returning to the community to receive structured support as they reenter the workforce and family life. The City of Charleston offered free financial planning resources to fathers served in the area and to local fatherhood staff. A similar resource is available in Greenville, extending practical money-management help across more than one region of the state.

Charleston Mayor William Cogswell will issue a fatherhood proclamation in October, recognizing the role of engaged fathers in child well-being, family stability and local economic strength.

Board member Donna Waites, president of the Sisters of Charity Foundation of South Carolina, connected the SCCFF team with the ATI Foundation. The team had a great meeting with the ATI Foundation, where they shared details on programs, outcomes and alignment with community needs in Dorchester County and the broader Lowcountry.

The Coastal Carolina Foundation agreed to work closely with A Father's Place, SCCFF's Lowcountry regional affiliate, to assist with local fundraising. The commitment is intended to help the affiliate build sustainable support for fatherhood services already rooted in the region, rather than relying only on statewide resources.

Together, the visits reflect a deliberate strategy: pair statewide capacity at SCCFF with county, municipal and philanthropic partners who can open doors to reentry, financial stability, public recognition and local dollars. Workforce development remained a through-line in each conversation, linking father engagement to employment, family economic security and reduced reliance on crisis systems.

Karriem Edwards Joins Leaders from across South Carolina in Leadership Development Program

President Karriem Edwards recently began his Leadership South Carolina cohort alongside 55 other leaders from business, government, education and the nonprofit sector. The statewide program is designed to deepen participants' understanding of South Carolina's civic, economic and community challenges and to build relationships across sectors. The cohort is scheduled to graduate in spring 2027. His participation places SCCFF's work inside a broader network of state leaders at a time when the organization is expanding affiliate partnerships, pursuing new funding and aligning programs with county reentry and workforce efforts.
